THE NEXT ANNUAL MEETING

As has been advertised for some months past on the fourth cover page of the Journal, the next annual meeting of the Association will be held with the University of Wisconsin at Madison, April 13-15. The program of this meeting will be published editorially in the next (March) number. We urge all who can possibly attend this meeting to begin now to make their arrangements to do so. We hope especially that our members of the northwest section who have hitherto found themselves too far away from the annual meeting to attend will take advantage of this favorable opportunity to experience the undoubted inspiration which a personal attendance at an annual meeting gives. One may read the papers as they appear later from time to time in the Journal; but nothing can take the place of the personal touch and the chance to form and renew friendships which the annual meeting gives. Let us make the Madison meeting a record breaker for attendance. On to Wisconsin!
